

Clinical Trial Discussion Guide

For Patients

Considering a clinical trial can feel overwhelming, especially when you're already navigating a brain tumor diagnosis. This guide is designed to support you during conversations with your care team by helping you ask thoughtful questions, take notes, and better understand your options.

Bring this guide to your appointments. Use the space provided to write down your care team's answers or any follow-up questions you may have. The more informed and empowered you are, the more confident you'll feel about your decisions.

Be sure to bring this discussion guide to your next appointment with your doctor.

“It has been an incredible privilege to see the life-changing impact of [GammaTile®] on my patients with brain tumors and participate in the ongoing clinical trials with the potential to alter future standards of care.”

- Dr. Clark Chen (Neurosurgeon)

Professor of Neurosurgery, Director, Brain Tumor Program
Co-Director, Stereotactic Radiosurgery Program
Warren Alpert Medical School of Brown University

QUESTIONS

- Why am I a good candidate for this trial?
- What treatments or procedures are being studied in this trial, and which ones would I receive?
- What are the chances I'll receive the experimental treatment (if randomized)?
- Will I know if I am receiving the experimental treatment (if randomized)?
- How does this trial differ from the standard treatment currently available for my condition?
- What are the potential risks and benefits?
- What can I expect during the trial, and how long will it last?
- How might this trial impact my daily life (physically/mentally)?
- Can I continue taking my regular medications during the trial?
- What happens if my condition worsens during the trial?

- What actions should I take if symptoms or side effects become overwhelming or difficult to manage during the trial?
- Will I be able to leave the trial if I change my mind?
- How will my privacy and personal health information be protected?
- Will I still be eligible to join other clinical trials after participating in this one?
- What happens after the trial is over?
- How can I join a clinical trial?

For product information or assistance, or to be connected with your GammaTile representative, contact:

GammaTile Customer Service Department

(833) 662-0044 | customerservice@gtmedtech.com

---

©2025 GT Medical Technologies, Inc. All rights reserved. GammaTile® is a registered trademark of GT Medical Technologies, Inc.